

Name: Wellsway School, Bristol

Focus: Embedding the Olympic and Paralympic Values across the school

Wellsway School is a Specialist Sports and Science College that is using the excitement of London 2012 to adopt and establish the seven Olympic and Paralympic Values as whole-school values. The aim is to impact on the lives of all young people, in partner schools and in the community, and to help them to create a lasting legacy from London 2012.

The school has:

- incorporated the Values into school life through the new vertical house system
- taken every opportunity to incorporate the Values across all curriculum areas to enrich teaching and learning
- integrated the Values into whole-school development planning and ethos.

Whilst 'Respect' is being adopted as an over-riding value, all others have had a particular focus during each term, as follows:

- Term 1 Friendship
- Term 2 Determination
- Term 3 Equality
- Term 4 Courage
- Term 5 Excellence
- Term 6 Inspiration

'The Olympic and Paralympic Values are not necessarily about sport. They are about how all young people should lead their lives'
